

This project is created to explore how 2D textures and colors can produce a sense of depth by layering flat paper cutouts into a carving-like 3D artwork. It also aims to demonstrate key principles and techniques, including cutting precision, figure-ground relationships, texture creation, and the intentional use of hue and saturation. Textures inspired by Chinese porcelain and pottery are paired with the traditional palette Color the Classics, featuring cobalt blue, cerulean blue, cornflower blue, amber orange, maize yellow, rusty red, and alabaster white. A slotted wooden standing frame supports the boards and allows their order to be rearranged in multiple combinations, enabling exploration of different possibilities in composing the foreground, mid-ground, and background.
